WebLearning is one of the leading providers of digital and content management solutions and services in data conversion, media and graphics development, prepress and e-publishing services for Fortune 500 companies. The publishing team at WebLearning is equipped to deliver all types of services and solutions for the print, online and media domains with its two major wings pre-press and e-publishing.

e-Publishing and Media Services

The e-publishing division of WebLearning continuously invests in cutting edge technologies and innovative workflows to meet any imaginable data conversion need that you may have. We provide efficient high-quality automated conversion services from any format to XML, SGML, e-books, Image Conversions, etc.

We also provide conversion services to transform or migrate content from any digital or print format, validate it against a specific DTD and return a well-formed, validated and accurate document.

Cost Effective, On-Demand and Flexible

Does your enterprise need a cost-effective way to develop CBT, Instructor-Led Manuals and Student eBooks for the entire organisation - locally, nationally, or globally? WebLearning On.Demand Publishing is the answer! WebLearning On.Demand offers Custom CBT and Courseware services for organisations that wish to create custom or standard education materials. WebLearning On.Demand creates custom instructor-led training materials, self-study guides, procedure and reference manuals, and help desk support materials in a matter of minutes..

Design and Build eBooks, Self-Teach CD-ROM, mobile or e.Learning Courses easily, effectively and economically

The On.Demand Publishing solution includes thousands of ready-made well researched education materials and business processes which can be easily customised for your internal use, anytime, anywhere! With topics covering Business Intelligence, Data Warehousing, Project Management, Performance Management, SOA, Web Services, BPEL, Business Process Management, Integration, IBM, Microsoft, SAP, Siebel, Oracle, Hyperion, BusinessObjects, Cognos, Informatica, PeopleSoft and JD Edwards and Open Source products.

Like all of our offerings, On.Demand Publishing is organised into thousands of learning objects that are task-specific and targeted to the needs of each user. Our learning objects are small and interchangeable, which gives you unmatched customisation options for building custom courseware and help desk materials in eBook format. Our courseware model has been fine-tuned to guarantee that each product is consistent and follows sound educational methodology.

When you choose WebLearning Network, you get a comprehensive software platform that lets you create, manage, and deliver e-learning that changes the way your institution learns and works. Only Web e-Learning Network provides so many compelling reasons to make it your choice for e-learning. Organisations around the world already rely on WebLearning Network (WLN) for enterprise-wide learning. Here's why you should join us:

Access to the world's best content With WebLearning Network, you can incorporate content from almost any source - leading authoring tools, word processors, presentation packages, and more. Great content is at the core of an effective e-learning solution. With WebLearning Network, you can create the most compelling learning experience possible.

Customised Manuals in Minutes Choose your title(s) from our library of courseware. Add as many applications as you need. With just a simple click of the mouse, drag and drop, topics, lessons, and components, in a matter of minutes. The content developer will automatically generate student data files to correspond with the topics and lessons you have requested. Your Instructors can deploy courses cost effectively and Students can learn essential skills when it's convenient for them and more cost-effective for you.

An enterprise-wide vision WebLearning Publishing is an extremely powerful, scalable solution that can grow with your organisation. No matter how large your organisation is, WebLearning Publishing has the proven scalability that lets it meet your ongoing Publishing needs. With its three-tiered cloud architecture, the WebLearning Publishing platform can be configured to run on a single departmental server or multiple servers for enterprise-wide deployment.

Powerful management capabilities WebLearning Network provides an extensive array of management tools that let you measure the effectiveness of your learning programme and the competency of your students - ensuring that e-learning is achieving maximum academic results.

Get the content you need to train your organisation

High-quality, up-to-date, relevant, engaging content is at the heart of any training and education effort. With WebLearning Publishing, you can incorporate almost any type of content into your online class or eBook - from word-processors, presentation packages, and the world's most advanced authoring tools (including the Macromedia authoring tools).

You can also buy pre-packaged, ready-to-go content from WebLearning Publishing. You can also tap one of our many Business Partners for high-quality, innovative content. Or you can turn to WebLearning e-Learning Content Services to custom-develop content for your specific courses. In any case, the result is compelling, interactive learning modules that drive real academic results.

Plus, WebLearning Network platform is compliant with the world-recognised standards set by the Aviation Industry Computer-based Training Committee (AICC) and SCORM, ensuring seamless integration of almost any content.
